

Rebecca Seawright

Dear Neighbor,

This week I will join the New York Caring Majority, a movement of seniors, people with disabilities, family caregivers, domestic workers, and home care providers from across the state, and the Campaign for New York Health in Albany to celebrate the reintroduction of the New York Health Act. The bill has been amended to include long-term care and support services. We are closer to ensuring that the single-payer system becomes a reality in the State of New York and encompasses all essential health services.

In our community, please join us at one of the following events that I am pleased to sponsor:

Waste Transfer Station Construction Advisory Group (CAG) Tours East 91st Street Facility Set to Open in March 2019

On Tuesday, the MTS Construction Advisory Group took a tour of the East 91st Street waste transfer station. The facility will open by end of March- early April utilizing the E. 91st Street ramp until the E. 92nd Street ramp is complete. At that time, the 91st Street ramp will only serve as a housing for utilities. Once the facility is operational, a sanitation worker will be posted at the 91st Street entrance to direct truck traffic into the facility. According to a letter from the Sanitation Commissioner, the E. 91st Street ramp can hold 17 trucks on the ramp and has 6 bays inside for receiving, eliminating the likelihood of delays for trucks to get onto the ramp. The group had access to see the interior of the facility on the second floor, where waste is compacted into crates with lids to be transported by barge to Staten Island. According to DSNY officials, the lids will prevent odors from escaping into the air and will prevent bird or rodent feeding issues. The exterior pier deck crane operates on a track to move crates from facility to barge.

Sanitation Truck Route to East 91st Street Marine Transfer Station from Community District 8 (59th Street to 96th Street from the East River to 5th Avenue)

DSNY has committed as a condition of a New York State Department of Environmental Conservation Permit not to cue on York Avenue at any time. In addition, during all operations an employee will be stationed at the base of the ramp (91st St.) to guide vehicles into the facility.

Priority Tipping Route (full trucks) - Traveling north on 1st Avenue making a right on to East 86th Street heading east one block to make a left onto York Avenue heading north five blocks to make a right on to the ramp on East 91st Street.

Non-Priority Route to Garage (empty trucks) - Traveling west along East 91st Street to make a right on 1st Avenue heading north to turn left on 125th Street heading west to turn right on to Saint Nicholas Avenue proceeding north on Saint Nicholas Avenue and Broadway to turn right onto West 215th Street and proceeding east to the Sanitation Garage.

Employment Opportunities for the Census in 2020

Here's how to apply for census taker, recruiting assistant, and office clerk positions for the 2020 Census. In the New York City area, these temporary jobs pay from $20 to $25 per hour. You can work part time or full time.

The process has completely changed since the last decennial Census (in 2010), so please read carefully!

You must be at least 18 years old, have a valid Social Security number, and be a U.S. citizen to qualify:

1. Fill out an online application. Here is a link to the form:
<https://recruitment.2020census.gov/ats/careersite/census.aspx?site=1&c=census>
2. In order to complete the application, you'll need to provide your Social Security number, your home address, an email address and phone number (make sure these are correct, since they will be using them to contact you!), and your date and place of birth.
3. Once you submit the online application, Census will create an account and give you an account number. You can then check the status of your application online using that account number.
4. If Census is considering hiring you, they will contact you by email or phone to schedule a telephone interview.
5. If Census makes you a job offer, they will next ask your permission to run a background check, using your fingerprints, and will provide you with information on how to get that done. An arrest that did not lead to a criminal conviction will not bar you from Census work unless the case went to court and is still pending. Having one or more criminal convictions will also not automatically bar you from Census work – Census will make an evaluation based on several factors, and they may contact you for more information. Don't assume that just because you have a conviction history, Census won't hire you.
6. Waiting on the background check may take a bit of time – sometimes several weeks from the date you are offered the job. This is Census's normal procedure and does not mean you will be disqualified.
7. Once Census makes you a job offer, it will provide you with information about required training. Census will pay you for time spent at training – and the amount of time will vary depending on the job you've been offered.
8. You will become an official Census employee when you are sworn in. Generally, this happens on your first day of work, or can happen during your training.
9. If you have questions during the application process, call 1-855-JOB-2020 (1-855-562-2020). Press 1 for technical assistance or press 3 to speak with someone at your local census office.
